

ISLAND VILLAS TOPS THE COMPETITION AT PRESTIGIOUS PROPERTY AWARDS

Leading property professionals gathered in California last week as the results of the Americas Property Awards in association with CNBC Arabiya and the New York Times were revealed. The presentations were made during a networking event and gala dinner held at the US Grant Hotel in San Diego.

As well as entries from across the USA; the Caribbean, Mexico, Panama, Brazil, Canada, Belize and Bermuda were represented this year. Island Villas, as well as other local and regional companies selected as winners, attended the glittering awards dinner. There were 36 different residential and commercial categories in total and up to two of the most outstanding entries in each category were given a four-star award, while the best overall entry achieved a five-star. Island Villas was the delighted winner of the five-star award in the category of Best Real Estate Agency – The Caribbean.

Having earned this high accolade, Island Villas is now entitled to display the Americas Property Awards' logo with pride. This symbol of excellence has become recognised and appreciated by property buyers who are becoming increasingly well informed and discerning in their choices.

Entries were judged by a panel of 52 independent professionals whose collective knowledge of the property industry is unsurpassed by any other property awards. The International property Awards are also supported by 12 professional bodies and many of these are represented on the judging panel.

By securing this prestigious win, Island Villas has demonstrated its commitment to offering the highest international standard. Managing Director, Richard Eames, has expressed the company's intention to build on this success in the coming year via the efforts of the well-trained team in Barbados and the association with Savills International in the UK. Mr. Eames reiterated the company's dedication to promoting its innovative 'Go Green' environmental campaign and various charitable initiatives.

“We are extremely proud to win this prestigious five-star award. This accolade is testament to the dedication of our team at Island Villas. Despite the global downturn, the company continues to succeed as we strive to set the benchmark for service standards and sustainable development. In the coming year, the company intends to expand its portfolio throughout the region as well as increase our presence in the local market.”
